

our developing world's 2009-'10 Report

We thank all our volunteers! We could not exist without them:

- Our regular Monday volunteer Gay Lynn Godfrey has helped us with organizing our resources so they were easy to display and take away, redid our address/phone list, made many display boards and much more!
- Newsletter mailing team: John Wytmanns, Arlene Lightfoot, Jackie Welch, Lee Anne Welch
- The helpers for pricing and setting up and clerking the handcraft sale.
- Jasmine Ricks helped with numerous DVDs.
- Our volunteer intern from Yale, Marlena Vasquez has helped with computer glitches, DVD's, compiling the calendar and a myriad of other tasks.
- Elizabeth Orr got us on Craig's list to begin the process of finding homes for our teacher resources and lends her artistic eye to make our crafts display more attractive and inviting.
- John Wytmanns helps with all those impossible tasks that he can find a solution for.
- Catherine Curtis helped with much computer stuff.
- Meiyu Chen, our incredible web master
- And Mike Cook is the one who always gets me out of the worst computer glitches!

We have found homes for our teachers' resources except for current magazines and some realia which we'll still use for teacher seminars and !!! It's wonderful to know that all these people will be using those materials.

A Middle school teacher took story books her students could read to the adjoining elementary school (to improve her students' reading and for incentive for the little ones).

A Roseville elementary teacher took some musical instruments, some realia and stories

A teacher of Music History took our books on composers.

A new teacher at an alternative high in SF took a file cabinet and all its contents
The Waldorf High School took another file cabinet and posters
The Chinese immersion elementary school in SF took all those materials
The Latin American Resource Center, UCSC took all our Latin American materials
The American Indian Resource Center took all our Native American resources
Santa Clara University took material on Women and Development
Stanford took African materials and books.
World SAVVY took everything left of High School and some Middle School global resources, simulations and posters. He filled a van!
Cristy McCauliffe Elementary and Middle Charter School, Cupertino took all the materials we still had for those levels.

We aren't folding up. We just wanted to get our resources where they'd be used.
We still have a variety of magazines to use with teachers to develop lesson plans, plus posters, some realia and our simulation Starvation or Survival.

We also have display boards for a variety of presentations. Currently we're doing programs on Honduras where we were June/July. And our EcoReality Tour for 2011 is to Cuba April 20-29 Check our website: www.magiclink.net/~odw

We are adding our daughter Karen Andrus and our son Craig Ulmer to the Board so that when we are no longer here they can get the rest of the resources where they need to go.
